

Florida Medical Association recognizes 3 doctors

Special to the Chronicle

The Florida Medical Association would like to recognize three individuals for their achievements.

Christie Sain, M.D., a family medicine physician practicing at Patients First, received a certificate for completion of the

Sain

Florida Medical Association (FMA) Leadership Academy. Working with

Inglese

Katopodis

this customized, 10-month emerging leader program. This program is de-

the Leadership Development Institute at the University of Florida, the FMA Foundation developed signed to enable physicians to enhance their leadership skills and provide training in core aptitudes within the business world, organized medicine, medical staffs, group practices and the public policy area. This leadership experience is designed to benefit and educate physicians who want to improve health care delivery to their patients, communities and the medical profession.

John Katopodis, M.D., an Interventional Cardiologist with Southern Medical Group practicing at Tallahassee Memorial Physician Partners Cardiac and Internal Medicine Specialists, was elected as a Florida Medical Association delegate to the American Medical Association House of Delegates.

Marc Inglese, M.D., a dermatologist practicing at Dermatology Associates of Tallahassee, was re-elected to the Florida Medical Association Board of Governors.
