

CAMPUS NOTES

Florida State researcher honored by The Stuttering Foundation

Lisa A. Scott, director of clinical education and research associate in the School of Communication Science and Disorders at Florida State University, has been honored with the inaugural Dr. Alan Rabinowitz Award for Clinical Excellence.

The Stuttering Foundation bestowed the award at a ceremony during the 2018 American Speech-Language-Hearing Association Convention in Boston. The award comes with a cash prize of $10,000.

Students all over the world are trained using Scott's masterpiece, Basic Clinical Skills.

Scott is a Fellow of the American-Speech-Language-Hearing Association and holds the ASHA Certificate of Clinical Competence in speech-language pathology.

FSU College of Medicine recognized for diversity efforts

The Florida State University College of Medicine has received the 2018 Health Professions Higher Education Excellence in Diversity Award from INSIGHT Into Diversity magazine.

The college also received the award in 2017. The College of Medicine is the only medical school in the U.S. that places in the Top 10 for enrollment of both black and Hispanic students.

The FSU College of Medicine and other HEED recipients will be featured in the December issue of INSIGHT Into Diversity.

Florida State University's Center for Information Management and Educational Services has been awarded a 2018 APEX Award for Publication Excellence. The center received the national award for its web-based training developed in collaboration with the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services.

In addition to developing training, CIMES provides information management, web application development and interactive media services. It is part of the FSU Institute of Science and Public Affairs
