

Group and Peer Advising for Undergraduate Student Research

FRIDAYS at 12:30

Room 3316, 3rd floor

College of Medicine Research Wing

The number of students seeking research at FSU greatly outnumbers the opportunities that become available each semester. The process of getting into a lab is competitive. FSU and the College of Medicine does not have a system for placing students into research labs, but Dr. Foster offers advice to help you navigate the process of gaining research experience.

Attend one of the Group Advising sessions this semester. We get everyone's questions answered and cover more information in a full hour than in a brief appointment.

Join CELLS! One of the best ways to know if research is for you is to network with students. Get meeting info and updates on Canvas through MyFSU.
