YOUR FUTURE FACILITY

What is currently being built at Tallahassee Memorial?

Through a comprehensive strategic planning process, Tallahassee Memorial HealthCare (TMH) recognized the need, and developed plans, to modernize our operating rooms and adult intensive care units to provide state-of-the-art services and meet the growing demand in our region. The M.T. Mustian Center will be a multi-story 346,270 square foot addition, which will be located at the southeast corner of the TMH campus (near the corner of Miccosukee Road and Medical Drive) and directly connected to the existing Tallahassee Memorial Hospital.

What will this facility look like and contain?

The M.T. Mustian Center will contain 28 operating rooms, which will replace all existing operating rooms, 4 interventional suites for neurosurgical and vascular procedures and 72 adult medical/surgical intensive care beds. The Center will be designed to accommodate future additions of operating rooms and intensive care beds when the need arises. This facility will also house all the necessary support services for the operating rooms and the intensive care units, such as pre-admission testing, perioperative services, post anesthesia care unit, sterile processing services, blood banking, respiratory therapy, CT imaging, pharmacy and materials management.

When will it be complete?

While the construction and actual building of this facility will be done in late 2018, the M.T. Mustian Center will start accepting patients in early 2019. During the months leading up, Tallahassee Memorial will spend ample time performing extensive training and preparation to ensure the M.T. Mustian Center runs smoothly upon opening.

What other enhancements can be seen at TMH?

In addition to the new M.T. Mustian Center, Tallahassee Memorial is also revamping the parking garages in order to improve the parking experience for patients and visitors. Additional interior and exterior renovations to the existing hospital buildings will also take place between now and the completion of the M.T. Mustian Center.
